

Maria LENGENFELDER

I have been working nearly 20 years now for the European Commission as an interpreter.

I consider the European project to be a fantastic endeavour to promote understanding between peoples as well as peace and stability.

Our contribution to the implementation of these aims is best made within a constructive and inspiring working environment where everybody can give his or her best while feeling respected.